

EQUISEARCH APPOINTS JAMES KEYSER AS CHIEF OPERATING OFFICER

Elmsford, NY – June 24, 2010 – Equisearch, a leading provider of services for search and recovery of lost financial assets, today announced the appointment of James Keyser as the company's new Chief Operating Officer. Keyser brings a wealth of industry, sales and operational experience and will be responsible for continuing to grow Equisearch's roster of clients and range of services to locate lost shareholders and assist corporations with their escheat reporting requirements.

Keyser previously served as Keane's President of Investor Communications and Retention Solutions. He will report directly to Equisearch CEO, Carl D. Glaeser.

"Not only does Jim have tremendous industry experience but he is also seen as a visionary and we are very pleased to welcome him to Equisearch," said Glaeser. "Jim's results oriented approach will help Equisearch continue to excel and maintain its leadership position in unclaimed property."

For more than twenty years, Equisearch has been helping companies locate and contact shareholders who hold dormant assets. In recent months, the company has expanded its services to include pre-escheat reporting and risk mitigation to help companies maintain compliance with local escheat regulations. By leveraging technology and unrivaled deep search capabilities, Equisearch has established itself as the industry leader.
